LONG IT WILL WAVE.

If vigorous arm-sawing, foot-stamping, vociferation and other forms of mass-meeting orstory were needed to assert the rightful pre-eminence in this city and country of the glorious star-spangled banner, the patriotic outburst in Cooper Union last night would do the business.

The cold fact is, however, as one of the speakers admitted, that "no insult has been cast upon the American flag." The very men who cherish a sentimental regard for the symbol of a lost Irish liberty would be among the first to fight for the flag of the free, as they were in 1861.

But an excess of patriotism is vastly better than a lack of it. The flag of the country is the flag of all, for all. Long shall it wave!

UNDERGROUND.

The Arcade Railway Company claims to be ready to begin operations in building a four-track railway under Broadway from the Battery to Fifty ninth street, and thence to the Harlem River. It proposes to put up $5,000,000 indemnity for any incidental damage to property, though its engineers say there will be none. Such a road as this, with two tracks for way and two for through trains, is what the city needs. But the charter should have better safeguards for protecting public rights and private interests than these franchises

Despite all the diplomatic caution and professional concealments that have surrounded Emperor FREDERICK's case, it is painfully evident that there has been no check to the progressive nature of his disease.

THE VOICE OF THE WORKERS.

The petition secured by THE EVENING Works asking the Governor to withhold his approval from the bankers' bill to ent off two-thirds of the holidays, goes to Albany

Its size, and the spontaneous character of the protest, prove that the toilers know what they want, and are in earnest in asking for it. Let the Governor weigh the words of one of the petitioners: "I am just as tired after a hard week's work in winter as I am after a hard week's work in summer."

The gallant man who will "do anything to oblige a lady," was never more accommodating, even in comedy plays, than was BCHUYLER STYMUS, who yesterday pleaded guilty to bigamy. He had a wife of only four months' standing, but married another girl to shield her reputation and accommodate her family, though he had never seen er before. Judge Gilderslerve characterized SCHUYLER as "the most accommodating man he had ever heard of."

A snowstorm in St. Paul while the lilacs are in leaf at this point, recalls the intensely facetions despatches that were sent to New York from the "banana belt" in Minnesota during our blizzard. Those chaps probably don't feel half so funny now.

The case came up for trial in the First District Civil Court yesterday. Lawyer Lynn, counsel for the defendant, asked that a jury of twelve men be summoned.

Justice Norton granted the request and twelve landlords, all of whom were worth more than $50,000, were put into the box.

After the evidence had been heard the jury twonght in a verdict for the defendant.

It is the first time in more than six years that a regular jury has been summoned in this court.

Mme. Romero, the wife of the Mexican Minister at Washington, is said to have no superior among the ladies of the capital as an entertainer. She was one of the first ladies of the diplomatic corps to remove the barriers of exclusiveness that hedged in that circle, and invitations to her receptions are always greatly in demand. Mme. Romero is a daughter of an old Virginia family and is a fluent converser in Engilsh and Spanish.

Mrs. Ingalls, the wife of the Senator from Kansas, is a woman of about forty-five, but is remarkably young looking and active. She was a Miss Cheeseborough and traces her lineage back to a Puritan ancestor who settled in Boston in 1630, when the colony there was established. She is a lady of medium stature, well-rounded form, and her manner is replete with energy, grace and vivacity. During the past winter she was the leading spirit in the Grand Army entertainments in Washington.

One of the most grotesque residences in the United States, the famous " Cracker Custle," in St. Louis, is soon to be torn down. The building has been a monument to the folly of Charles Pierce, who built it at a cost of $75,000 out of the fortune he made in furnishing the Government with hardack in war times. There is not a comfortable room in the castle. It has long been an object of idicule. Its next owner after Mr. Pierce was P. C. Sharp, who bought it for $50,000 and sold it for $14,000. It is related that a stranger once asked Mr. Sharp, "What fool built that house ?" "Oh," replied Mr. Sharp, "I live there."

AN UNTIMELY FIX:

A Rescue Fraught with Danger.

JOSEPH F. M'GILL, Chief of Third Battalion, F. D. N. Y.

Concluded. (WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THE EVENING WORLD.) HASTILY got her completely between me and the ladder. I put my arms one on each side of her, holding the sides of the ladder as tightly as I could. I pressed against her closely and kept her as fast as I could. I was afraid struggles she that in her spasmodic struggles she would break away from me and drop to the ground So there we were in midair-she having her fit and I trying to keep her from dropping to the ground. It was anything but agreeable. She was not a light woman and could not help to keep herself on the ladder at all. Moreover, she was struggling in the violent movements which the fit occasioned her.

I held on and kept pressing tightly against her. But I soon got tired. I do not sup pose the fit lasted more than five minutes But it seemed a good deal longer than that, and I was beggining to think what I could do in case she should keep it up long enough to exhaust me. This would not have had to be so very long with her dead weight on me and her convulsive workings threatening to throw her down to the street below. It was a considerable strain. It may seem comical to picture the thing.

woman having a fit on a ladder when a fireman was helping her to escape from a burning building is incongruous enough. What more inconvenient place could she select or what worse time? None that I can think of unless it would

I PASSED HEB ARMS OVER MY SHOULDERS. To my great satisfaction the flerce twitchng and kicking of her legs began to grow eas. She quieted down and finally came to herself again. But the attack had weakened her. It had been a drain on her strength, and after it was over she was so worn out that it was impossible for her to assist herself in getting down even to the slight degree she did in the beginning, when she could do some of the things I told her. One of the firemen came to my help. I passed her arms over my shoulders and held them tightly while he grasped her behind me and steadied her as we slowly worked down.

It was a comfort to plant one's foot on terra firms and to get the woman in a place where if she did fall it would not do her any great injury. I took her husband and herself to the station-house to rest a little after the excitement before they went anywhere.

She did not have another fit. It would have been a great convenience if she could have put off the one which she did have for about five minutes, instead of having it on the ladder. But, of course, it was not a matter of choice with the poor woman. This was my only experience of this sort of thing, and I am not anxious to have another. I often used to think of it when I was helping some woman down the ladder, and hoped she wouldn't take it into her head to get spasm till we got to the ground. Fortunately none of them ever have.

The good woman was duly grateful for being helped and seemed sorry to have been so much more trouble than could have been expected. Very often persons that have been rescued from burning buildings regard all that a fireman has done as something tha doesn't call for any feeling of gratitude fron then. They argue that the firemen are paid for this and that it is a part of their profes sion. This view is not the most pleasing one to those who have rescued them. Of course, a fireman is engaged and paid for putting out fires and doing such things as are incident-ally connected therewith; but after all it seems as if he were entitled to a little more credit for bringing a human being out of flames and smoke to safety than a hodman is for taking a load down a ladder.

MALT EXTRACT. The Best Nutritive Tonic -FOR-

Impaired Digestion, Mainstrition in Conva-lescence, Pulmotary and Throat Diseases. A SOVEREIGN REMEDY For the Weak and Debilitated.

Indorsed by all Physicians throughout the Civilized World. PROF. PIETRA SANTA, OF PARIS, PROF. PIETHA SANTA, OF PARIS, the world-renowned specialist on phimonary diseases, in his work published in Paris, speaks of the Johann Hoff Malt Extract as follows: "I can highly recommend this pleasant remedy in restoring weakened digestion. As a large number of outlents lack the necessary power to digest soil; food, and would, through the use of stimulants, be merely excited and weakened, therefore I regard to firmense vatue to the Practitioner to bring to his aid a picasant remedy like the GEN-TRACT, which will set not only as a tonic but as a nutritive as well, and which is less exciting than wine as a stimulant."

JOHANN HOFF, BERLIN, PARIS, VIENNA. New York, No. 6 Barclay St. Reware of Fraudulent Imitations. The GENUINE has the signature of "Johann Hoff" on the neck, and comes in flat squarry bottles with a German label thereon.

NEWBERRY, Mich., May 5.—Fred J. Stewart, Pressurer of Luce County and Postmaster of Newberry, was arrested by the United States authori-

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Stacey they pleaded not guity and were held under $2,000 bonds each. During the examination Stewart jumped from a second-story window and attempted to escape, but the officers caught him. Both are now in the county jail here, unable to give bonds.

The affairs of the Post-Office are in bad shape, and crookedness being suspected at Washington, inspector Stuart was sent here yesterday and found a $1,000 shortage. Stewart is a young man who a year ago had brilliant prospects. He came here from Marquette as partner in a branch of a large hardware establishment, was soon appointed Posimaster and, though a Democrat, was elected County Treasurer. He was bounced from his firm mooths ago, and is a wreck from the use of liquor. It is not yet known how his accounts stand as treasurer. treasurer. He Paid With a Worthless Check.

George A. Romer, a young lawyer of Buffalo, was arrested yesterday for issuing a worthless check, on the complaint of Jay H. Clark, manage check, on the complaint of Jay H. Clark, manage of the Grosvenor Hotel. About six weeks ago, Romer, while living at the Grosvenor, tendered a check drawn on the Irving National Bank for $19.50 in payment for room rent. The check was returned with the information that Romer radio account there. When confronted with the check Romer asked Mr. Clark is hold it for another day, when he would make it all right. He then left the hotel without notifying the manager and was not seen or heard from until yesterday. Mr. Clark saw him in the saloon under the Stewart Belliding and called in Policeman Manchester, of the Broadway squad, who took Romer into custody. At the Entsacett street station he a mitted that he issued the check and was locked up.
